

Welcome to CPS 2300: Interpersonal Communication Skills (CRN 53179) Summer, 2009!

This is a fully online 3-credit course offered through the GSU Department of Counseling & Psychological Services. It uses a computer software program and navigational system developed and administered by Faulkner Press (Media).

This is an “early welcome,” so that you can purchase your materials and start as soon as you are ready.

The course software is purchased online and downloaded via the Internet. There are no additional required materials or textbooks. The software includes text, lectures, video clips, learning activities and online exams. There are 16 general topics organized into four sections, with practice tests for each topic. Four online exams, one for each section, determine one’s final grade.

There are NO on-campus class meetings. Learn and study at your own place and your own pace. Check the syllabus for exam times.

So, let’s get started! I hope you enjoy the course.

Robert (Bob) Myrick, Ph.D.
Professor
